

Committee To Evaluate College During February

Representatives of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will visit Loyola College on February 8 and remain until February 11. During this four day period the College will be evaluated on five areas: 1.) Purposes and Objectives, 2.) Organization, 3.) Resources, 4.) Program, 5.) Outcomes.

The purpose of the evaluation is to assist the college in appraising the effectiveness of its educational program, in analyzing the extent to which its resources, facilities, administrative services and practices support and strengthen the educational program, and in considering means of improving its work.

Loyola College has been accredited by the Middle States Association since 1931. This is a periodic re-evaluation.

Committee

On the committee visiting the college are President John C. Adams, Hofstra College; Brother Augustine Philip, F.S.C., President Manhattan College, Glenn J. Christensen, Dean of the College of Business, Niagara University, Charles W. Mixer, Assistant Director of University Libraries, Columbia; Rev. Daniel P. Munday, C.M., Operational Vice-President, St. John's University, New York; Harold D. Reese, Supervisor of Teacher and Higher Education, Maryland State Education Department.

Association

The Middle States Association is a membership of educational institutions joined for mutual encouragement and helpfulness. Its purpose is the improvement of educational programs and facilities and the broadening of educational opportunity.

Dramatic Society Begins Rehearsals

Loyola College's Dramatic Society, The Evergreen Players, are currently preparing for their third production of the academic year. Sometime in March, they will present THE LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING, a play by Christopher Fry.

This play is a comedy in verse, and well displays Fry's allegorical characters. The setting is medieval England. Christopher Plummer starred in the leading role in a television production of this play last Spring.

Paul Cawthorne, of Loyola, will star in the leading role as Thomas Mendip, a man who wants to be hanged. The "Lady", Jenny Jourde-mayne, will be portrayed by Barbara MacNamara of Mount Saint Agnes. Other players include John Synodinos, Frank Detorie, Jim Molloy, Dennis Smyth, Bob Hare and John Baynes.

Six To Receive Army Commissions

Six distinguished military students of the Loyola College R.O.T. C., who applied for a Regular Army commission, have been selected for appointment as Second Lieutenants, according to information received from the Department of the Army. This maintains the record of previous years in which all Loyola students who have sought regular commissions have been accepted for them.

The students who will be commissioned Second Lieutenants after graduation and their respective branches of service are: John H. Birrane, William R. Gegner, and Edward W. Offutt, Infantry; August P. Boerschel, Artillery; Joseph F. Vinci, Adjutant General Corps (initial assignment to Infantry), and Andrew P. Blasco, Chemical Corps (initial assignment to Artillery).

Darwin Symposium Held To Celebrate Centenary

The centenary of the publication of Charles Darwin's Origin of Species was commemorated at Loyola College by a Symposium on Evolution, which was held at Cohn Hall on January 14th.

Dr. William O. Negherbon, Chairman of the Department of Biology at the College, was the chairman of the symposium. Three papers were presented, and an opportunity for discussion was provided. Rev. George S. Glanzman, S.J., Professor of Scriptures at Woodstock College and Instructor in Semitic Languages at Johns Hopkins University, spoke on the subject, "Ancient Near Eastern Views on the Origin of the World." Dr. Charles G. Wilber, Chief of the Comparative Physiology Branch at the Army Chemical Center and Professional Lecturer in Biology at Loyola College, discussed "Darwin: The Man as He Was." This paper included a discussion of Darwin's times and his own beliefs and works. Rev. J. Franklin Ewing, S.J., Professor of Anthropology at Fordham University, presented the final paper: "Darwin: Upt to Date." This considered the developments in evolutionary theory in the one hundred years since the publication of Darwin's Origin of Species.

Biographic Notes

Rev. Glanzman received his S.S. L. from the Biblical Institute in Rome where he specialized in the study of the Old Testament, and has done graduate work under Dr. William F. Albright at Johns Hopkins. Dr. Wilber has taught at Fordham University, St. Louis University, the University of Pennsylvania and Loyola College.

Rev. Ewing did graduate work at Vienna, Columbia and Harvard, and during 1940 he received from the Republic of Lebanon the Médaille d'Honneur pour la Mérite.

Library Statistics

Under the heading of "Darwin", there are 10 references in the Main Library and 12 in the Biology Library, and under "Evolution", there are 45 references in the Main Library, and 28 in the Biology Library. There is also, under "Evolution", a "see-also" card with various sub-heads, including "Creation", "Embryology", "Genetics", and "Teleology".

The library has also added to its shelves a book entitled "Darwin's Century", by Loren Eiseley, which was published during 1958.

Summary

Rev. Glanzman stressed the religious rather than the scientific intent in the Bible's account of the world. Dr. Wilber spoke on the men who influenced Darwin's work. Rev. Ewing pointed out the different kinds of Catholic attitude toward evolution which was symbolized by the present symposium.

Dr. Kirwin Gains Presidential Post

Dr. Harry W. Kirwin has been installed as president of the American Catholic Historical Association. Dr. Kirwin is Chairman of the Department of History and Social Science here at Loyola, where he has taught since 1947.

Dr. Kirwin marked his 20th anniversary of teaching in Jesuit schools in 1957. A native of New York State, he graduated from Holy Cross College, took a Bachelor of Laws degree from St. Lawrence University, and two higher degrees — the M.A. and Ph.D. — from Fordham University.

He is the author of "Conceived in Liberty", a history textbook used in various high schools, and he is now completing a text titled "Readings in American History" to be published by Doubleday in late summer. He is also at work on a biography of former senator and governor Herbert R. O'Connor.

Shown above are Rev. J. Franklin Ewing, S.J. Professor of Anthropology at Fordham University, and some of those distinguished personalities who can be seen regularly in his classes.

"Who's Who" Selects Eleven Loyola Seniors

Eleven seniors have been chosen by Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges to be listed in its 1957-1958 edition. This is the same number from Loyola as last year.

The students elected to this national honor society are Bill Noonberg, John Synodinos, Ted Madey, Jack Serio, Dick Zamecki, Hugh McKenna, Charles Fitzsimmons, John Oppelt, Jim Slifker, James Kelly, and Jim Stadter. All are perennial members of the Dean's List of Distinguished Students.

Purposes

Who's Who has two important purposes. First, it serves as an honor, free of all politics, fees, and dues, to students of outstanding accomplishments in their college. Second, it establishes a reference volume of authoritative information on the great body of American college students who are leaders in their colleges.

The senior class president, Bill Noonberg, has received the Distinguished Military Student award, is Commander of 'C' Company, treasurer of Loyola's unit of the Association of the Army, and a member of the Scabbard and Blade, the Student Council, and the Block 'L' Club. One of the most active men on campus, John Synodinos, is Student Council president, head of the History Academy, and a member of the I.R.C. and the Music Club; however, he is best known for his acting talents, having played the lead role in "The Man Who Came to Dinner", "Sleep of Prisoners", and "Cocktail Party".

Glee Club Heads

Ted Madey, president of the Glee Club, is active on campus in the Physics Club, is a member of the national Jesuit honor society, Alpha Sigma Nu, and, until recently, was on the Business Staff of the Greyhound. The treasurer of the Glee Club, Jack Serio, is also a member of the Physics Club, and formerly held the post of Business Manager of the Greyhound.

The Debating Club's president, Dick Zamecki, is a member of the Physics Club, Alpha Sigma Nu, and Tau Kappa Alpha, and is a representative to the Student Council. Hugh McKenna lists among his activities the Alpha Sigma Nu, Yearbook, International Relations Club, Scabbard and Blade, Dramatic Society, and the track team.

Charles Fitzsimmons includes the International Relations Club, Classics Academy, Alpha Sigma Nu, John Berchmans Society, and Eta Sigma Phi in his activities. The Prefect of the Sodality, John Oppelt, owns membership in the Math Club, where he is Vice-president and Secretary, the Yearbook, where he is Layout Editor, Eta Sigma Phi, where he is president, and the Classics Academy.

Slifker, Kelly, Stadter

Jim Slifker holds the office of president of the Math Club, as well as membership in the Physics and Radio Clubs. Co-captaining the Lacrosse team is Jim Kelly, who also actively participates in the Block L, Student Council, and the Association of the U.S. Army. Jim Stadter is vice-president of the Radio Club, and belongs to the John Berchman's Society, the Math Club, and the Physics Club.

Debaters Travel For Tournament

The Loyola College Varsity Debating Team, accompanied by Mr. Jon O'Brien, S.J., participated in the 'Hall of Fame' tournament at New York University on December 12 and 13. The team finished with a record of 4 victories and 4 defeats.

The negative team of Tom Dwyer and Nelson Cooney won 3 matches, losing only to North Carolina, which placed second in the over-all rankings. The affirmative team of Tim Hooper and Tom Curtis had a one win and three loss record, one of the losses being to St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia, the eventual tourney champion. The third place position among the 43 competing colleges resulted in a four-way tie, between Georgetown, St. Peter's of New York, Dartmouth, and Princeton, all of whom won 7 of their 8 debates.

Future Plans

The team has a 3 and 1 record among home-and-home debates in the Cardinal Gibbons League. Plans are also being made to enter two national tournaments in January, which are to be held at Johns Hopkins University and at Morgan State College.

The above picture shows the work completed thus far on the Student Union Building, under construction on the northeast corner of the campus. This is the view looking north from the athletic field towards what is to be the main entrance of the building.

Editorials

John C. Osborne, M.D.

Occasionally, while still in school, the student is made aware of the great number of people who are earnestly and altruistically concerned with his welfare: Recently the Loyola student had such an opportunity when the college lost one of these men.

On December 12, 1958, Dr. John Osborne died. The notices on the various official bulletin boards perhaps meant little to the students. In our presently over busy world such things as personality are lost and this is an example of it.

Doctor Osborne of the class of 1937 has been working with the Dean of Men's office to set up an adequate Health Service for the college. This would extend the benefits of a group medical service to all the students of the college. It had already come to the notice of students through the flu and polio vaccines made available at cost this fall. A comprehensive physical examination for all students had been planned and a suitable questionnaire prepared. All of this without seeking remuneration and refusing to accept any offered.

So what does this all mean? Those who pay Blue Sheild or other medical insurance plans know that there is a great expense to such plans as Doctor Osborne was planning and a great expense to the service he gave and all without charge. The really important thing though, is the realization that our teachers and big benefactors as the Jenkins or Mr. Cohn are not the only ones who concern themselves with Loyola and the Loyola student.

Christ said, "When you give alms do not blow a trumpet before you." Dr. Osborne took these words seriously and very quietly volunteered his time and himself to aid Loyola and her Students. Certainly the Loyola student should be aware of the debt of gratitude he owes Dr. Osborne and men like him and pay that debt as best he can.

Loyola's Homecoming

Many students have ambulated around our campus through the years, loudly bewailing the fact that Loyola has no Homecoming. True, the sight of beautiful damsels cavorting on floats in Homecoming Courts is a sight to warm the hearts of any red-blooded male. True, also, the warm greetings extended between old, illustratius alumni and we the striving undergraduates is a bond that secures the esteem and endearment of any college or university in her sons. Because of these traditions, many around our small campus have lamented, crying that Loyola is devoid of a Homecoming.

Yet, they are wrong. Yes Loyola had her Homecoming Queen, her returning alumni, the warmth of mutual esteem. This is the story of Loyola's Homecoming.

Whereas other universities and colleges elect their queens for beauty, Loyola needed no election, our queen, the most beautiful, is elected for us. She reigns each year at our Homecoming. She receives no crown from us, for hers is an everlasting one. She receives no gifts from us, for she has given us the supreme gift. She is our queen, the Queen of the whole world, Our Mother.

The Alumni were there, at the Homecoming banquet, as were many students. Most brought their wives, fiances, sweethearts or just friends. The master of Ceremonies was Father Smardon. Each year the Master of Ceremonies may change, but never the banquet. Most partook of it that day. It was the banquet of the Holy Eucharist.

Perhaps some of you are wondering where and when this Homecoming took place. For those of you who were there this year and other years you know that it takes place in our chapel at Christmas Midnight Mass.

Too many lawyers? You may have heard that the legal profession is overcrowded. But look at these figures taken from a survey published in the November 1958 issue of the American Bar Association Journal:

1. In the decade of 1940-49, new lawyers in this country numbered 25,732 fewer than in the preceding decade, although the population increased by 27 million.

2. Since 1949 the number of lawyers admitted to practice annually has decreased steadily from 89 per million of the population in 1949 to 57 per million in 1956. In relation to population, therefore, the number of new lawyers has been declining annually for 26 years.

Does this decline in numbers indicate a decline in the need for lawyers? On the contrary, Professor Joiner of the University of Michigan estimates, after careful study, that from 70,000 to 88,000 more lawyers will be needed in 1970 than were practicing in 1955.

Without just laws, and without intelligent submission to them, nations do not long live in peace. To have wise legislation, justice, and an intelligent interpretation of the law, which will lead to wider acceptance and consequent order and peace, we must have able lawyers. How about you?

Quidnunc

By RICHARD C. KEENE

Today QUIDNUNC has gone international. Gazing into the heavens, your nosey Latin inquirer has seen strange sights, sights of new planets, new moons, flying animals, and the like. Thus, the mood for the question is set — the Twentieth Century Space Age.

The question posed to my fellow leaders of tomorrow is, as follows: What are your views or opinions concerning the new Soviet "planet" around the Sun?

Jerry Sleater—'59 (Chemistry): It shows a need for a greater interest in science in this country. It also shows the total failure of the present administration to see adequate means to safeguard the welfare of the country."

Dave Nagel—'60 (Pre-Med): "It was a surprise to hear. It is the greatest scientific advance in space travel so far. However, it seems to have more of a prestige value than a practical one.

Tom Curtis—'61 (Political Science): "The 'Lunik' has more than just a military application. It becomes daily more imperative for joint U.S.-U.S.S.R. cooperation in interstellar considerations."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

As Alumni of the College and as former members of various Loyola athletic teams, we are deeply distressed at the apparent lack of interest on the part of the student body in the athletic endeavors of the College. We make particular reference to the Loyola-Georgetown game of Tuesday, December 9, at Evergreen.

On this occasion, in a game billed as a toss-up, Loyola's students were conspicuous by their absence. We do not mean to disparage the efforts of those who did attend, our complaint is that their numbers were entirely insufficient, which was attested to by the 500 or more empty seats in the gymnasium.

If this were an isolated incident, it would scarcely be worthy of comment; but we have noted, with regret and dismay, the dwindling attendance by the students and the lessening of their enthusiasm, over the past few years.

Father Beatty, his faculty and others who are connected with Loyola only because of their interest in a Catholic, liberal arts college are constantly endeavoring to lege are constantly endeavoring to secure for the College a more prominent position on the educational horizon. This difficult task is made all the more difficult by the fact that these now benefiting the most from Loyola seem to be the least interested in her extracurricular activities.

Loyola Colege has a heritage of athletic greatness and a tradition of loyalty and devotion to its teams. It is to be hoped that this spirit has not been lost beyond recall.

Very truly yours,
(signed)

Paul J. Feeley '47
Robert J. Sweeney '50
Eugene F. O'Connor '47
Jerry Chadwick '54
Ed Kowalski '53
John Cummings Sr. '26

P.S. The above all were in attendance at the Georgetown game...

Ed. note: The above alumni have made a good case, at last count only 335 free basketball books had been distributed.

Andy Stump—'62 (Physics): "It will just make the U.S. strive harder to surpass the Soviets in the race for space supremacy."

John Healy—'61 (Pol. Science): "I feel that it shows a definite lack of cooperation between the Defense Department and Congress. If this condition were remedied the U.S. could draw abreast, and even surpass Soviet advancements. The result of this launching only deepens our feeling of insecurity. I only hope definite plans will be made to correct the present situation.

Bill Kneval—'59 (Physics): "It will spur the U.S. in attempting to keep up with or overcome the Russian lead in missile projects. It will also open the eyes of the big-wigs in D.C. to give the Defense Department money and means of accomplishing equal, if not greater, deeds than the Reds."

Ron Sacker—'60 (Physics): "We overlooked the Russians' diligence while patting ourselves on the back about our own satellite. I recommend Federal aid to colleges and universities for advancement of Physics and Physics-Engineering."

John Griffin—'59 (Physics-Engineering): "This launching shows the U.S.S.R. is ahead of us in the missile race. But we can't be sure, for we can't be sure, for we can't ascertain how many attempts it took for them to reach this peak."

Fred Strauch—'62 (Math): "It is definitely a great scientific achievement, although I don't believe it gives them a major advantage over the U.S. I believe we are close to this accomplishment, and maybe even more advanced in other experiments."

True, this is the Twentieth Century Space Age. However, for my closing quotes of the day I will refer back to the Seventeenth Century, to two British authors.

For the U.S., in general, is a quote from Samuel Butler: "For now the field is not far off, where we must give the world a proof... of deeds, not words."

For the Soviet Union, my source is Sir John Suckling: "Success is a rare paint. It hides all the ugliness."

Au revoir, mes amis.....

Fr. Didusch Celebrates Jubilee - - - Sixty Years As A Jesuit

On Nov. 23, 1958, many Jesuits assembled at Loyola to honor Father J. S. Didusch, S.J. The occasion was his diamond jubilee, sixty years in the Society of Jesus. The climax of the celebration was a festive banquet in the Faculty House. This celebration was simply a token of the gratitude which all felt, for they knew that sixty years of devoted toil could never be repaid.

Educated at St. James' parochial school, Loyola High, and Loyola College, Father Didusch entered the Jesuits in 1898. His first assignment was to teach biology at Loyola High in 1904, being the first Jesuit to teach Biology in the Maryland-New York Province. His graduate work was taken at Columbia University during 1906. Six years later he was ordained at Woodstock.

From ordination until 1935, Father held six positions, ranging from professor of Biology to Dean of the Philosophical Dept. at Woodstock. In 1935, he was appointed to Loyola College as professor of Biology, and today after 24 yrs. on the campus Father Didusch is the professor emeritus of Biology.

When he first entered the field of Biology, it was still in its infancy. At the time only two or three textbooks were printed. Since that time, Father has published a "Biology Syllabus For High Schools," the revised edition of which is used in all the Jesuit high schools of the province. During his career this learned biologist has written articles for many scientific journals, and has completed much tedious research on such important topics as hemoglobin and anthropology. While head of the Biology Dept. at Loyola, Father Didusch stocked the library with the best available books. Many visiting educators have noticed this feature and commended it highly.

At the banquet given in his honor, several brief speeches were given. One of the speakers was the Provincial, Father Maloney, S.J., who had served Mass for Father Didusch years ago in Philadelphia.

Father Didusch is now confined to the Faculty House because of ill health, especially because of painful heel ulcers which make walking almost impossible. He is a member of eleven learned societies and is listed in seven directories of notable people.

When we view the lifetime pursuit of knowledge, the indomitable spirit which recent and unfortunate pain has not dampened, and the fine priestly qualities of Father Didusch, we are sharply aware that words are incapable of expressing our gratitude.

Former Austrian Soldier Now Teacher At Loyola

Mr. Hans Mair, who joined the Loyola faculty in September, has perhaps one of the most interesting and little known backgrounds of any teacher in the college.

He was born in Bonn, Germany in 1930. Shortly afterwards the Mair family returned to their home-town of Linz, Austria.

Eight years later, the Nazis moved in, and in 1940, Hans was forced into the Hitler Youth Movement where he served more or less faithfully. But in 1944 he was expelled and placed in the Austrian Home Guard, remaining there until the end of the war.

After the war Austria was partitioned into four sectors. Linz was situated in the American zone but not far from the Russian sector. Here Hans attended secondary school, graduating in 1949. He then enrolled at the University of Innsbruck and in 1954 received his Doctorate of Law.

In 1952 and again in 1954 Mr. Mair came to the United States as an exchange student and attended Carleton College in Minnesota. During the summer months while over here, he worked, first at an Oregon cannery, and then as a maintenance man at Carleton College.

Deciding to remain in the United States, Mr. Mair enrolled at Hopkins in the fall of 1955, in order to continue his studies in Political Science. At the same time he also taught at Gilman School. That summer Hans joined the United States Forest Service at San Bernadino, California. Returning to Hopkins in the fall, he also worked at the Berlitz School of Languages here in Baltimore. In the summer of 1957 he was employed as a laborer for the B. & O. Railroad.

After his marriage that fall, Mr. Mair began teaching at Loyola on a part-time basis while studying at Hopkins.

Last fall Mr. Mair became a full time member of our faculty, and the Political Science department is very fortunate in obtaining his services.

Loyola Soccer Fullback Leads Own Jazz Band

You may notice this fellow, books in hand, as he walks along the campus between classes. Stockily built, of medium height, he wears glasses and has his hair cut in crew-style. Among his fellow students he would be indistinguishable. This is Harry Bloom, student.

If you were to have the occasion of seeing him on a weekend night, you would preceive the exact same physical characteristics, but an entirely different man. Seated at a piano, or, perhaps playing a trumpet, he offers musical entertainment for a crowd of happy, dancing people. This is Harry Bloom, musician.

Harry was born in Charleston, W. Va. At the age of eight years he was started in the musical field when his parents gave him the opportunity to take piano lessons. He persisted in this pursuit for eight years. Somewhere along the way he also learned to play the trumpet, although never taking a formal lesson on this instrument.

A few years ago, Harry formed his own band, called the "Rhythm Aces". Members of Local 770, A.F.M., these musicians perform, for the most part, in the Washington, D.C., and Hagerstown areas. Their musical repertoire includes every kind of music, from modern jazz to popular dance ballads.

Harry is of the opinion that Loyola College is sorely deficient in the furthering of musical study. He feels that events such as the recent on-campus jazz concert should be undertaken more often.

However dear to Harry Bloom, music definitely takes a back seat to his education, and will continue to do so after college, for Harry's desired career is one of teaching not of music. Yet music will always remain vivid for him, because music is the provider of his education, the ultimate source of his career.

Gene Nieberlein scores against Washington College as Ed Murn follows play.

Greyhound Natators Conquer Gallaudet; Then Drop Tough Contest To Gettysburg

Mike Karpers

Setting three pool records in process, the Loyola College swimming team sank Gallaudette, 47-36, in the Washingtonians pool. The meet was the first Mason-Dixon engagement of the year for the acqua-Hounds.

The standards, which fell, were in the 400 yard medley-relay, the 200 yard butterfly, and the diving competition. Mike Karpers, Ted Herget, Paul Karpers, and George Krapp eclipsed the old medley mark in the time of 4:49. Then Krapp, swimming butterfly for the first time since his freshman year, also swept through his eight lap event in 2:56.8, while Tony Dorn scored a grand total of 202.5 points off the springboard, for th ethird record.

Dorn had plenty of competition in Galladete's diver, Parks. Tony, defeated only once in his four years at Loyola, classed him as the best that he had faced in his college career.

Other first place finishers were Seeley Powley in the 220 yard freestyle, Peter "Fuzzy" Powley in the 100 yard freestyle, Mike Ennis in the 200 yard backstroke, "Bo" Bavis in the 200 yard backstroke, and Mike Karpers in the 400 yard medley-relay. According to coach Bill Klarner, "the meet showed the tremendous flexibility of the team, in that many men swam in events, other than those in which they were normally accustomed."

Last week, the Hounds lost a close meet to Gettysburg, though the score of 52 to 34 may seem to indicate otherwise. Coach Klarner has great admiration for what he calls the "guts effort" of his swimmers. Even when defeat was certain, the swimmers went on to give their best individual effort to date.

This coming Tuesday, Loyola plays host to LaSalle, and this meet also promises to be a close one. This season, come and root your 1958 Mason-Dixon Champions to another Championship. The swimming team only has two more home meets; LaSalle (Jan. 27), and Shepherd (Jan. 30). The Mason-Dixon tournament will be held this year at American University on February 6-7.

Intramural Items

By Matt Schwienteck

The first basketball application received by Nap Doherty was from Norman Vitrano, captain of the "Moleskins. The Moleskins, led by "Mole" Vitrano, are John Coleman, Jim Foley, Roll Sturm, Ron "Bryl Cream" Harnek, and Frank "Polack" Wieczynski.

Coach Mole anticipates another successful season. Seven lettermen are returning from last year's hilarious squad which gives the Moleskins a strong bench to back up the starting five. As coach Mole states, "We may not have a better won-lost record than last year (1-2), but I am sure we will draw more laughs and bigger crowds.

The Moleskins, imitating Eddie Erdlatz's jitterbug defense on both defense and offense, have several basic comical plays in store for their rivals and their admirers.

Incidentally, team captain Mole will be trying to break individual record set by him last year — i.e. being thrown out of the same game four times by the same referee (Joe O'Hara). All Ref's please note! ! !

Fourteen teams have entered the basketball intramurals. The teams are Tom Gentner's Handy Six, Gary Green's team, Bernie Debits, Jerry Sibiski's Highballs, Chuck Truffer's Dodo's Clark Bowie's Losers, Gloriosos's Dukes, Tom Field's Anonymous Five, Bill Hartman's Ramblers, Walt Hinke's Vets, Jack Heisner's Feeble Five, Stompers and Mole Vitranos's Moleskins.

In intramural football the Ramblers defeated Smirnoffs 2-0 in the playoff game for the winner of the losers-bracket. Ray Short was thrown for a loss behind his goal line for the two points. The Ramblers thus gained the right to play the Vets for the intramural championship.

The Loyola College Greyhounds will play host to the Creighton University Blue Jays next Thursday evening at 8:45 P. M. This will be the first meeting of the two schools.

As this game takes place during the semester break, each student should make a note of the time and the date of the game. A big crowd, on hand, would give the home squad a world of confidence. With the type of spirit and determined efforts the hounds have been turning in they are worthy of your support.

Getting to the game itself, it promises to be an interesting one as the Jay's have averaged over 50 points per game. Their main scoring threat will be at center in Dick Harvey, who carries a 13 point average.

The first week in February provides the Green and Grey with its toughest Mason-Dixon competition of the year, in American U. on Tuesday, the third, Johns Hopkins on Wednesday, the fourth, perennial rival Mt. St. Mary's on Saturday, the seventh, and Western Maryland on Tuesday, the tenth.

The time of the Mount Saint Mary's game has been moved back to 8:15. Tickets are on sale NOW, in advance. Details may be found below.

Junior Mike Sneeringer has led the squad in scoring through the first half of the season, with 135 total points for a 13.5 average after ten games.

Sneeringer who was sidelined last year due to an illness, has improved more with each game and according to coach Lefty Reitz, "is one of the hardest workers on the squad."

Right behind "Big Mike" were rugged rebounder Joe O'Hara and hustling John Heagney. O'Hara boasted 107 markers, while Soph. John had hit at an 11.3 mean.

Captain Gene Nieberlein (8.9p.p.g.), Fred Ruppel (6.4p.p.g.) and Ed Murn (5p.p.g.) round out the top five. Nieberlein has been dynamite under the boards, Ruppel is a playmaker, and "Leaping" Ed is one of the finest jumpers in the league.

Attendance this year has been dragging, considerably. Although not as power-packed as some previous quintets the squad has shown desire and potential. They deserve a better break from the student body than they've been getting. Let's fill the gym on Thursday the 29th.

Student Tickets For Mount Game Available At Gym

The office of the Director of Athletics has announced that all seats will be reserved for the game against Mt. St. Marys on Saturday, February 7. This has been the policy in the past. Once again this year, tickets will be available in advance. Each student will be entitled to one ticket, upon presentation of the stub for game number 9, from his season ticket book, and one additional ticket priced at one dollar. These tickets will go on sale, at the gym, on Monday January 12.

The entire south side will be reserved for Loyola students. The first to obtain tickets will obtain the best seats.

Student season books may still be obtained at the office. Now that the team is beginning Mason-Dixon play, the blue chips are down. The team deserves your support. It is a foregone conclusion that the gym will be filled on February 7, that is tradition. The important thing now is that it be filled with Loyola students, rather than the backers of the invaders; not only for that game but for all the remaining home dates.

"B" Squad Faces Bullis Cagers Tomorrow Night

By BOB REITER

The Loyola College "B" squad has gotten off to a slow start this year, but coach "Nap" Doherty feels that as the season progresses, the team should iron out the difficulties that have arisen.

Tuesday night, the squad will play its second home game of the new year when it faces Bullis Prep from Silver Spring. This game will start at 4:00.

The starting line-up for tomorrow nights contest lists Tony Torba at center, John Kilkenny and Wade Bowman at the forwards, and George Yurek and Him Kennedy at the guards. Torba, a 6'3" hoopster from Dundalk, and Kennedy who graduated from Kenwood were All-County cagers last year. Yurek, sparkplug of last year's Loyola High M.S.A. champs, was a second team All-Maryland selection. Kilkenny is from New York where he starred at Massapequa High. Bowman was a starter on last year's "B" squad.

These five will be backed up by Buck Effinger, Bill Knoche, Nor Byrnes, John Howe, Mike Rose, and Ron Seager. Coach Doherty is not displeased with his squads showing thus far and says, "Some of these freshman are having a hard time adusting to our style of basketball, but I have seen a lot of improvement since the season started, and I feel that the boys will come along and have a good season."
